THE TANZANITE COLLECTION

For wishes that deserve more.

Your guests know beautiful hotels and excellent service. What they seek is often more personal: uninterrupted family time, rare encounters and the freedom simply to be themselves. Entrepreneurs, private individuals and public figures deserve the same attention to their wishes. The Tanzanite Collection shapes these wishes into private journeys in northern Tanzania, with Kevin Nassary personally accountable and your agency an equally valued customer.

A journey designed to commission

Your agency brings the guest’s personality and wishes. We design the route, retreats and special moments around them. Particular requests are where our work begins.

A partner for exceptional enquiries

When an enquiry calls for more than a beautiful itinerary, our collaboration begins: with discretion, personal preferences, carefully planned surprises and organisation down to the details.

One accountable person for both customers

From the first client conversation to the final transfer, you work directly with Kevin. He connects your advice with delivery on the ground: personally, attentively and with the whole journey in mind.

Northern Tanzania is our core. Kenya and a private finale in Zanzibar can complement the journey. We deliberately design only a few journeys each year, with time for every detail and personal attention for both customers.
